Course Description
SCC4311 | Security Administration | 3.00 Credits
An analysis and evaluation of leadership styles best suited for success in the field of security.

Course Competencies:
Competency 1: The student will identify and discuss common leadership functions by:
1. Describing the interaction of modern organizational functions
2. Outlining the interactions between public safety and security leadership
3. Researching and categorizing theories of traditional leadership

Competency 2: The student will distinguish between internal and external organizational environmental factors by:
1. Researching and discussing the impact of environmental factors
2. Explaining and describing the leadership styles
3. Assessing the impact on organizations
4. Evaluating strategic planning strategies
5. Describing organizational culture and resistance to change

Competency 3: The student will discuss historical trends in leadership and management by:
1. Identifying and outlining major developments
2. Researching current trends through case study and analysis
3. Evaluating the impact of organizational change theory in organizations
4. Describing global perspectives of change

Competency 4: The student will evaluate steps in the decision-making process by:
1. Illustrating variables
2. Assessing case analysis results
3. Preparing summaries based on recommendations
4. Testing recommendations in group projects

Competency 5: The student will evaluate management decisions by:
1. Reviewing literature on leadership
2. Describing and discussing cost/benefit theory
3. Analyzing case studies

Competency 6: The student will critique a leadership case problem by:
1. Applying leadership concepts
2. Constructing a consultant's report
3. Providing a solution and implementing a process

Competency 7: The student will define global leadership styles by:
1. Comparing and contrasting domestic and international leadership styles
2. Evaluating the emergence of global leadership influences
3. Discussing the impact of diversity on leadership

Competency 8: The student will examine the study of ethics by:
1. Analyzing the relationship among ethical behavior, law and free choice
2. Debating ethical issues in public safety
3. Recognizing the basis for compliance programs

4. Researching the relationship between compliance and public safety programs

Competency 9: The student will describe the role of leadership by:
1. Explaining the function of managers
2. Distinguishing the difference between
3. Leadership and management
4. Evaluating the student's own leadership style/traits
5. Discussing motivational factors affecting leaders

Learning Outcomes:
1. Communication
2. Computer / Technology Usage
3. Critical thinking
4. Ethical Issues